Participation Conditions (excerpt)

A 4 Co-exhibitors and additionally represented companies

A co-exhibitor is a person who exhibits at the booth of an exhibitor (main renter) with his own staff and products. This also included Group companies and subsidiaries. Company representatives are not permitted as co-exhibitors. For exhibitors, who are manufacturers themselves, each additional company is considered an additionally represented company, whose goods and services are sold by the exhibitor. If an exhibitor, which is a sales company, exhibits additional goods or services of other companies, these count as additionally represented companies.

A contract is concluded via the approval of a registering company between the co-exhibitors or additionally represented companies registered by the company and MMG. The inclusion of co-exhibitors is subject to a fee; a fee is charge for additionally represented companies if the Special Participation Conditions B stipulate this. The fee shall be paid by the registering company; MMG can also invoice this subsequently.

The exhibitor shall ensure that his staff and companies additionally represented by him observe the Participation Conditions A and B, the Technical Guidelines and the regulations of trade fair management.

An exhibitor is liable for any faults of his co-exhibitors and additionally represented companies as for his own fault. If co-exhibitors use direct services of MMG, MMG is authorized to invoice these services to the exhibitor himself; he is liable for such charges as joint guarantor.

An exhibitor may not move, exchange, share or let third parties use his booth without the express written consent in advance of MMG.

As of: January 2007

B 2 Admission to Participate (cf. A 2)

All domestic and foreign manufacturers or their German branches, general import companies or authorized dealers of manufacturers are admitted to participate. All exhibits must be in one the goods categories of this trade fair and be cited on the registration with name and type precisely. Objects other than those registered and admitted as well as used machines may not be exhibited. The trade fair organizers make the decision concerning admission. Organizers of joint booths are not considered exhibitors in the sense of the "Special Participation Conditions (B)."

B 3 Co-Exhibitors (cf. A 1/2/4)

Co-exhibitors must be registered with Messe München by the exhibitor using a form, which is sent separately to the exhibitor. A basic fee of EUR 150 is charge for co-exhibitors. This basic fee includes the minimum entry in the alphabetic directory of the official exhibition catalogue, in the CD-ROM, in the Internet and in the visitor information system (minimum entry, cf. B11).

B 11 Catalogue, Internet and Visitor Information System

An official trade fair catalogue, an Internet database and a visitor information system will be created for the trade fair. These media will list all exhibitors (including co-exhibitors and companies at joint booths) in the alphabetic exhibitor directory with the name cited in the registration.

The minimum entry contains the company name, place, hall and booth numbers. Additional entry options for exhibitors (including co-exhibitors and companies at joint booths), e.g., in the goods categories, and other presentation possibilities in these media will be offered to exhibitors in a separate order form. The forms will be sent to exhibitors in due time. MMG does not assume any guarantee for the correctness or completeness of the catalogue, the Internet database or the visitor information system.

If you do not make any entry in the goods categories, MMG reserves the right to make the entry for the goods category from the registration documents.

The exhibitor (including co-exhibitors, companies at joint booths) is solely responsible for the legality—especially for the admissibility in the trade fair catalogue in line with the competition law—of the entry concerning his operations in the trade fair catalogue, the Internet exhibitor database and the visitor information system.

Should third parties enforce claims against Messe München GmbH due to the legality or the admissibility of the ad in line with the competition law, the company advertising in the trade fair catalogue releases Messe München GmbH completely from all enforced claims including all expenses required for legal defense of Messe München GmbH.

The same applies to entries of exhibitors, co-exhibitors and companies at joint booths, which the respective exhibitor, co-exhibitor or company at joint booth caused to appear in the trade fair catalog, the Internet exhibitor database or the visitor information system of Messe München GmbH.
